Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from The Canadian Journal of Medicine and Surgery, 1915 At that time only one end of the silk ligatures was cut short, the other hanging out of one corner of the flap, chiefly, they said, for drainage. During my student days it was rare to have an amputation of the thigh live until the ligature came away on the 14th day, the patient usually died of shock or pyemia the first week; I do not think I ever saw an amputation of the thigh high up recover. Surgical operations then consisted chiefly of removal of external tumors, amputations for injury or disease, cutting for stone and opening abscesses. The abdomen was a mare clausum, and if by accident the peritoneal cavity was opened the fate of that patient was sealed and the church was his only salvation. Still the. surgeons of that day were most skilled operators as they had learned their business in pre-anesthetic times, and it was a common thing to see an amputation of the leg or thigh done in sixty seconds and...
